

USIS is seeking operational, administrative, management, and executive corrections professions in support of its criminal justice programs worldwide. As a corrections professional, we seek your expertise in managing correctional staff and inmate diversity issues, policy development, program development, prisoner reentry, inmate custody and classification, audits, program review and evaluation, correctional training, leadership development, staff development, and curriculum development as well as the management and operation of correctional facilities at all levels.

For more information and additional opportunities, visit www.usis.com/cjps.

Duties May Include:

- Opportunities to manage diverse workforces and to create and enforce the rules and regulations governing a correctional facility, to include the confinement, safety, health, and protection of inmates as well as supervising the various work assignments of inmates.
- Support the reform and/or development of host nation corrections systems and develop the systems to support the selection, screening, and training of correctional officer candidates.
- Assess, monitor, and advise local correctional officers as they perform their duties.

USIS Criminal Justice Program Support (CJPS) is promoting global stability by helping post-conflict and emerging nations establish transparent criminal justice systems, founded in Rule of Law.

CJPS is a natural outgrowth of the wide range of security-based information, training, and security services that USIS already delivers through multiple contracts at the federal, state, and local government levels. USIS has trained more than 10,000 students in over 50 countries in police techniques, anti-terrorism, and counterinsurgency and has training teams operating in Iraq, Indonesia, Pakistan, Afghanistan, and Colombia.

CJPS missions support U.S. Department of State programs designed to:

- Build just, open, and professional criminal justice support infrastructure in post-conflict and emerging nations.
- Establish sustainable democratic institutions and create stable environments for good governance.
- Extend the Rule of Law to all citizens in a manner that is fair, equitable, and transparent.

USIS is currently looking for the following Corrections Professionals:
